DEDICATION

We, the staff, dedicate this, the 1957 INDIAN, to Mr. Edgar A. Skinner in recognition of his long years of outstanding service to Chautauqua Central School, his deep and sincere interest in its students and in appreciation of the fine example of Christian character which he has set.

IN MEMORIAM

It is with deep sorrow and regret that we record here the passing of our friend and teacher, Miss M. Enid White, head of our senior English department, on May 7, 1957.

She came to the New York State schools from several years of teaching in Pennsylvania. She took over the high school English department in Chautauqua Central School in 1926, where she remained for almost thirty-two years.

We appreciate, and shall greatly miss, her ability to pass on to us her knowledge and skills in the fields of English grammar, poetry, drama, and classic literature; and especially her fortitude in assisting us to continue to win our long and unbroken line of scholarships, both state and national.

Over twelve hundred students have had the benefit of her teaching. Many of them have returned from college to make known to her and to other members of the faculty their gratitude for the fine English courses received under her charge. This is true of her summer school students, also.

A part of her time was given to the study and teaching of modern drama. She helped to present many a play in our auditorium. She was long a member of the Chautauqua Poetry Club, whose members enjoyed an original poem by her at almost every meeting.

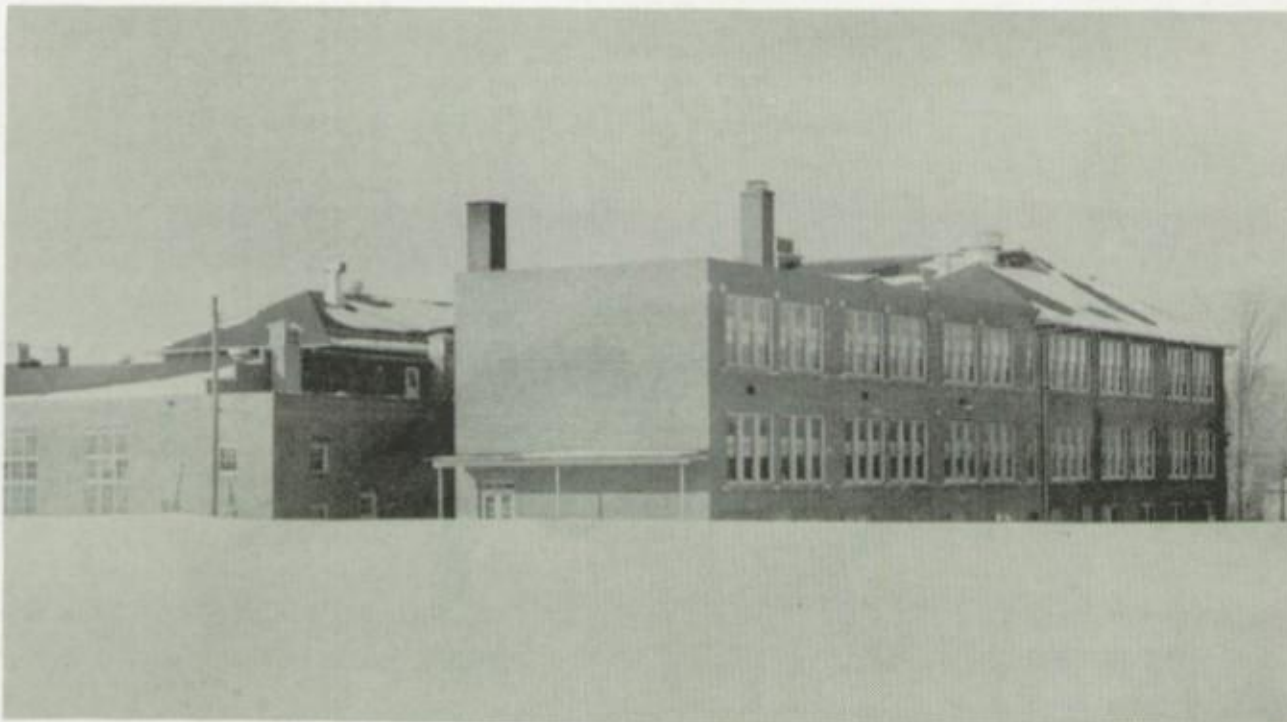

Edward Sill must have been thinking of just such a teacher, when he wrote:

"Forenoon and afternoon and night.— Forenoon,
And afternoon, and night.— Forenoon, and—what!
The empty song repeats itself. No more?
Yea, that is Life: make this forenoon sublime;
This afternoon a psalm, this night a prayer,
And Time is conquered, and thy crown is won."

It is with sincere regret that the Class of 1957 notes the resignation of Mr. Robert E. Rowland, high school Citizenship Education instructor. He has been teacher, adviser, and friend, not only to us, but to countless students of Chautauqua Central since 1946.

His unselfish and enthusiastic service to this community will long be remembered. We are happy that his good qualities have been recognized, and wish him the best of happiness in his new teaching position.

HISTORY — CHAUTAUQUA CENTRAL SCHOOL

In 1900 a building costing $12,000 was erected on the site of the present school. In 1908 this school was completely burned, and a new one built to replace it was opened in September, 1910. This building was only the central part of what is now our school. In 1916 the north and south wings were added and in 1936 the outside shop was completed. The present gymnasium was built in 1928. In 1951 a new wing was added which houses several grade and high school rooms, as well as the library and visual aids room.

Mr. George R. Raynor served as principal of Chautauqua from 1916 to 1941 except for one year which he spent overseas. Mr. John W. Turner came to Chautauqua as school principal in 1941.

The words "Chautauqua Central School" stand for scholarship, sportsmanship, and integrity. This has been proven by her outstanding record. In the past forty-two years, over sixty scholarships have been won by her students. This year's class has carried its full share by the performances of Peter Flagg and Ernest Washburn, who both won N. Y. S. Regents Scholarships. Ernest received the highest score in the county. In addition to the state scholarship, Ernest Washburn also earned a National Merit Scholarship and a N. Y. S. Science and Math Regents Scholarship.

The music department of Chautauqua has continued to uphold our school motto through the skillful leadership of Helen C. Gregg and Keith Emanuelson.

Chautauqua's agricultural department has won numerous judging awards including a New York State judging championship in 1930 and a national Holstein judging award in 1940.

Chautauqua's basketball teams have won eleven trophies including five county championships and an award for second place in New York State in 1931. In 1947 the Panama Hi-Y Club presented a county basketball sportsmanship trophy for the 1946-47 season to our team. This year's basketball team proved a severe threat to the county's champions, with a league record of 10 wins and four losses. Chautauqua has also won three tennis trophies, two track trophies, and three girls' basketball trophies.

This outstanding record of Chautauqua and her students has been due largely to the fine teaching staff and their efforts.

Seated: Linda Johnson as "Joan" and Gertrude Patterson as "Anne." Standing: Mr. Richard Whittington as "Don MacDonald"; Mrs. Mary Huhn as "Betty MacDonald."

This year the PTA and the senior class combined talents in what we think was a unique and successful theatrical venture. The newly published royalty play was a comedy adapted from "Onions in the Stew," a book written by Betty MacDonald, who is also author of "The Egg and I." It is the entertaining story of the adventures and misadventures she and her family experienced while living on Vashon Island, in Puget Sound.

The class was fortunate in having Mr. William McCreary of the Cleveland Play House as its director. Under his expert supervision, stemming from his wide professional experience, the players learned many of the "little" things so essential to a finished presentation.

The party given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Norton following the performance was a fitting climax to a memorable experience.

Our Friend From the Philippines

This year Chautauqua has been very fortunate in having Miss Perla Leah Manapol, an American Field Service foreign exchange student, study here and live with the people of this community. Perla arrived in the United States August 24, 1956, after a long journey of 12,000 miles from Manila, the capital of her native country, the Philippines. Perla has certainly come a long distance away from her family and friends in order to live a year in a strange country among strange people.

Coming here on an AFS scholarship, Perla has lived up to high scholastic standards. All school year she has been on the Honor Roll. She has also traveled all over the county, giving over 60 speeches to various schools and clubs, and has appeared on radio and television. Due largely to her efforts, nine schools in Chautauqua County will welcome students from other lands next year.

Perla's home town is Tanjay, Negros Oriental, where she lives with her mother, two brothers and a sister. She was graduated as valedictorian of a class of 128 pupils at East Negros Institute in March, 1956.

During the past school year Perla has been active in extra-curricular activities as well as her studies. Some of the activities she participated in are High School Girls' Chorus, Pep Club, Girls' Intramurals, FHA and yearbook staff. She is also an expert tennis player, and is scheduled to compete at Forest Hills this summer.

On June 28, Perla will leave Chautauqua for a 4,000-mile bus tour of the United States with other AFS foreign students. At the end of the summer she will return to the Philippines and attend college at Far Eastern University in Manila, where she will also do part-time clerical work in the registrar's office at the University.

Perla has gained many lifelong friends this year and has made us realize that all people, the world over, are the same, regardless of their nationality. We hope to have many more foreign students here at Chautauqua, but Perla will always remain first in our hearts. It has been a wonderful experience for Chautauqua, and we hope Perla has enjoyed it as much as we have. We sincerely wish Perla lots of success, and hope she has luck in whatever she does and wherever she goes.

CLASS HISTORY

Of the many pupils who entered Miss Virginia Strickland's kindergarten class in the fall of 1944, seven are graduating with the class of '57: Gerald Hewes, James Kranking, Patricia Burns, Sandra Gleason, Carol Fisher, Naomi Auge and Harold Anderson.

Gloria Samuelson joined us in Miss Maude Skinner's first grade, and in Mrs. Ruth Wheeler's second grade Annora Wood and Charles Hagadorn joined our rapidly increasing ranks. Linda Johnson, Charles Wanner and Stephen Saulsgiver entered Miss Marjorie Akin's third grade with us. In Mrs. Annah Reis's fourth grade, Vermont Blakeslee and Dene Lindquist entered this class. We spent a pleasant year in Mrs. Johnson's fifth grade, but no new additions were made in the size of our class.

It was a big day for us when we were promoted to Mrs. Fetzer's sixth grade, on the second floor. Here Marcia Van Derwark and Jerrold Crandall became classmates.

Our next step was Junior High School where, in the seventh grade, we initiated Mr. Garrett Mitchell in his first year of teaching. Here Peter Flagg was the new pupil to be met the first day of school. In Mrs. Virginia Hunt's eighth grade, Gertrude Patterson moved here and became one of our class members.

Now, at last, the big moment had arrived and we were high school students. We were all anxious to see what Ashville would have to contribute to our class and we found that she was to make up a large part of it. Starr Gleason, Ernest Washburn, Ransom Lydell, Donald Wilson, Donald Harriger, Duane Carlson, Michelle Krusen, Sharon Weller and Barbara Mead had chosen to come to this school after their graduation from Ashville Union Free School. John Weary was another that year for us to meet.

SENIOR YEAR

Well, Graduation, with a capital "G". Here it was, the day of days, for which we'd been waiting so long. At first, I felt self-conscious in my cap and gown, especially with that sea of faces down in front, scrutinizing each of us. None of us knew exactly how to act, tempers were mercurial and moods went from gay to thoughtful and back to gay again. The program had started, but I wasn't hearing too much of it. The thought had suddenly occurred to me the other night at a beach party we'd had, and it came back to me now, that tonight could easily be the last time we'd really be together. Oh sure, maybe we'd meet, or wave, or recognize someone across a crowded room and remark to a companion that "he was one of my classmates in high school," but we'd never be one unit again, not ever. That gave me an odd feeling.

We'd gotten to talking, there on the beach. Everyone was pleasantly tired after an afternoon of hectic fun. We'd eaten a picnic supper, complete to roasting marshmallows and then resumed the day's activities. Later, the sky a midnight blue and crowded with stars trying to outshine each other, we sat around a roaring bonfire. The talk led naturally to future plans. Each of us had some plan or another and four months from tonight we'd be scattered the proverbial "six ways from Sunday." As the fire gradually died to glowing embers, everyone started reminiscing about our past year.

Our first major production was an imitation of a night club, complete with a stage show and dancing. It was the brainchild of our finance committee, but only the hard work of everyone in the class made it into the successful venture that it was. The cider that was consumed; the can-can, when Nonie lost her shoe; Perla's accompanying the dance band; Patience and Prudence; all are memories of that project.

And whoever would think that dancing in the driveway (of the school) or a new technique of throwing small objects could be connected with a simple project of harvesting grapes? Trust the class of '57 though, they succeeded in accomplishing such things!

Then, two ham dinners were served smoothly and unusually sedately, one for the county music directors and one for the men teachers of the county. The chefs were complimented on the fine preparation of the food and the waitresses were complimented as well on their swiftness and good humor in serving it.

Selling refreshments at basketball games proved to be quite effective financially and interesting socially. The only complaint offered by those who worked was that they had to miss out on the game itself. There was usually not too much business during most of the game, but let there be an exciting moment or play and there was certain to be someone wanting something, and "Hurry quick. The game's real good!" It never failed.

The recreation dances and movies provided entertainment also, and wakened interest in activities usually passed by for something that at the moment was "more fun."

As always, selling Betty Dixon candy was on a competitive basis between the boys and the girls. I'm not saying which group won out, but there was quite a battle involved.

As Easter approached, one walking along the halls heard snatches of conversation drifting by:

"I've got to get that blouse finished . . ."

"My blue skirt. You know the one I mean."

"Gosh darn it, Dad hasn't picked up that film yet."

"What in heaven's name are you going to take with you?"

"He was supposed to pick that up yesterday!"

"Radio City, boy is that going to be fun . . ."

Of course, it was anticipation of the annual senior class trip that a student looks forward to from the time he enters CCS, and as usual, it passed all too quickly. Not everyone went, but spring vacation held fun for everyone. I think a Lost and Found Department should have been formed when school reconvened. I know Linda, at least, would have taken advantage of it.

End of the year acceleration began with the casting of "Onions in the Stew." Seniors worked hand in hand with the PTA on this production which was directed by Mr. William McCreary, of the Cleveland Play House. Everyone who witnessed the final results had only the best of comments to say about it.

The yearbook next enmeshed the class in its web, and work was stepped up to a frantic pace to get it finished on time. Ordering invitations and cards and then the task of addressing them also consumed more valuable time.

And tonight was the climax — the end . . . and the beginning.

CLASS PROPHECY

By Perla Manapol

The year 1982; the place—Saulsgiver Airport—built by the second richest man in the world, Stephen Saulsgiver. In an open space was displayed a 1982 super-jet car model (with a 1990 look) designed by Ranny Lydell. It could run on land, air, and water. Examining it was a rather fat customer, with an obnoxious bay-window, and profusely chewing a cigar. "Harrumph," he told the salesman, "have that thing delivered to the estate of John Weary, Jr." His wife, Naomi, looked pleased as she fondled a mink stole imported from Nowhere.

Plane flights were announced for Paris. At the doorway of a super-cruiser stood stewardesses Barbara Mead, sporting a Julius Caesar hairdo, and Carol Fisher, already a blonde. In the cockpit were pilots Peter Flagg and Charles Wanner.

Flying over the lands, the raidos were tuned in for the daily "Blah-blah's" by commentator Jerry Crandall. Biggest sports scoop was that the first woman pitcher of the World Series, Marcia Vandewark, just pitched a no-hitter, no-run, no-swung-at game for the Cleveland Indians. On another station was Professor Ernest Washburn, Jr., who was interviewed on his sensational invention of the long-awaited mouth lock for nagging women. His secretary, Aurora Wood, was the first person he experimented the lock on. On the cinerama-TV screen was Sandra Gleason Green, voted Mother of the Year, with her eighteen children all queued up on the screen. The suave emcee of the program, Jim Kranking, advertised one of the many dairy products of the world-famous million dollar Hewes-Blakeslee dairy business far off in the Philippine Islands.

Paris—in a Paris scandal daily, the Paree Revue, edited by Mademoiselle Michelle La-Krusen, millionaire playboy Don Wilson was sued by a dozen chorus girls for failing to supply each with a mink coat.

Displayed in a very expensive fashion store window were the infamous and out-of-this-world creations of Mesdames Patricia Burns, Phyllis Johnson, and Linda Johnson—the famous triumvirate of the fashion world. Model Sharon Weller had a so-called "bird's nest" hairdo and a breathless gown that was zigged low and zagged in the right place—a Don Harriger creation.

Going to the sports car derby, France's Bopster of the Year, Dene Lindquist, was challenged on the tracks by now-a-grandpaw Bob Goss, in his famous crash-proof car, Starr Gleason, and Duane Carlson, the century's Silas Marner.

The Paris trip over, we're back to good ol' USA. In a public gathering at New York's Times Rectangle (no longer a square), Dr. Trudy Patterson Alamasoo, the second Dr. Schweitzer and famous mind-reader, was giving a lecture on "How to Hypnotize Lions" to certain humanitarians. Just nearby, her husband, an eight-foot Zulu from Africa, was giving a high-jump exhibition.

Meanwhile, Sally Keefe Blakeslee, touring the world for winning a contest where she counted accurately the number of hairs on a chimpanzee, broke the news that a certain "Perla" in the Philippines had discovered a pop drink that would make short people grow in a few gulps.

News flashed again. This time, architects-construction engineers Charles Hagadorn and Harold Anderson, who constructed houses of glass, were investigated for indecent exposure. Their private secretary, Gloria Samuelson, had a hard time transcribing their unmentionable expressions at the hearing.

These will be the members of the Class of 1957 twenty-five years from now. If these predictions go off-hand, I shall be adjudged the worst prophet of the century.

JUNIOR YEAR

Looking back on my class and its activities this year, I realize that it has been a very busy and profitable year. With the exciting senior trip to New York City in mind, dinners, variety shows, dances and other money-raising projects have been held this year.

This year was highlighted by our annual "Variety Show." The show not only brought out a packed house, but provided some very good home-town talent from our own class. This junior year was not only a busy one, but also a very important one. The Junior Prom is all ours. The only annual formal dance during the year makes it a very special event. The juniors must also help the seniors with graduation.

It seems impossible that all these events have led us right to the doorstep of our final high school year.

SOPHOMORE YEAR

You can always tell a sophomore by his high and mighty talk!

Being a freshman is one thing but to become a sophomore gives a very powerful feeling. Not only are we now masters over the lowly freshmen, but there are great new horizons looming ahead: knowledge, scholarship, and wisdom.

The class is the thing that counts now. In only two more years we'll be having our senior trip, our prom — and our graduation, so we have to earn some money to finance all these things, and most of the best ways of earning money are already taken by upper classes. Anyway, there's still the old reliable to fall back on — like a smorgasbord (which we did make quite a lot on) and we can always hire ourselves out to Chautauqua's residents and turn all our earnings over to the class.

I guess, though, that the proudest time of the whole sophomore year is when a person can finally order his ring. Jeepers, what a wonderful feeling to actually be able to know it'll be yours next fall!

It's really a shame we can't be happy-go-lucky sophomores all our school years, but people have to keep on growing up and moving along. Besides that, there's our junior year to look forward to.

FRESHMEN

Well, it's almost all over now, and in a few months we'll be sophomores. Pity those freshmen next year, but, say, we really had a ball! Nothing like a little freedom, basketball games, and lots of homework to pep one up! Yipes! Here comes a junior — now where did I put that smile? Ah! . . . waving at me and — oh well, at least he only has seven more tickets to sell. Merciful Lucifer, the senior play poster! Forgot it. But everybody knows about it. I suppose I really should go home and get it — but the sophomores are really swell when you get right down to it. "Oh, I just hate to ask you to do this but I have simply oodles to do and I have to go skating tonight and — oh, I see, you would if you could, but you can't — sure I'll make yours, be glad to, no trouble at all. Yeah, maybe I'll see you skating tonight." Well, as I was saying, all swell kids and always so helpful, too. Hey, here comes Pete and Ernie; that reminds me — where did I put my science book? Wish Perla could stay here next year — what a panic in Latin! We'll really miss Miss Fox and Perla. "Say, remember the Hallowe'en Carnival? Hope we have another one next year, and who can forget class meetings? Sure will miss the seniors next year. Bet the yearbook will be swell this year." Well, there's still another month left. The bell, where's my assignment? . . . oh no, I've run into somebody . . . "Oops, sorry, Mr. Turner, hurry, late, didn't see you, running . . . uh, walking quickly down the . . . " Well, that's the freshman year!

YOUTH COUNCIL

In 1957, for the first time in the history of Chautauqua School, a youth council was established. Don Mawhir, the director of youth activities in Chautauqua township, headed the council with the aid of selected students from each class.

The primary purpose of this organization has been to increase the participation of students of all ages in activities specifically selected by the council. These activities were designed to stimulate enjoyment and to advance students' knowledge in more fields than the traditional "three R's." Some activities of the past year were movies every other Saturday, roller and ice skating parties, swimming at the YMCA, dancing lessons, fencing, dances, and the yearly baseball and basketball leagues.

STUDENT COUNCIL

This past year the Student Council, under the leadership of Duane Carlson, accomplished many things. At the first meeting, election of officers was held. Elected were: Vice-President, Sharon Weller; Secretary, Jane Crandall; Treasurer, Sharon Hovey.

Two representatives from the Council, Jerry Hewes and Sharon Hovey, served on the Health and Safety Council.

One of the major accomplishments of this year's Council was the establishment of an "Eligibility Board" for athletics and extra-curricular activities. The purpose of this board was to establish better citizenship and scholarship in the school. It was composed of Mr. Morse, Mr. Burlingame, Mr. Turner, and Duane Carlson and Jane Crandall from the Student Council.

This year the Council also planned several school assemblies, such as a talk on law enforcement by Sheriff McCloskey, a film and discussion on "Human Growth," and a talk by Perla Manapol on the Philippines.

A bronze plaque was ordered by the Council in honor of Mr. Edgar A. Skinner, to be placed in the school library. Several memorable projects were accomplished by this year's Student Council.

SPORTSMANSHIP BROTHERHOOD

 Third row—Roy Jones, Charles Hagadorn, Jane Crandall, Kenneth Aldrich, Pat Burns, Judie Aldrich, Leon Morey, Duane Carlson, Robert Goss.

The Co-ed Hi-Y this year has been under the leadership of Mrs. Edward Cherry. The sponsors of the club are Mrs. Blanchard, Mr. Burlingame, Mrs. Lynch, Mrs. Skinner, Reverend Aldrich and Miss Smith.

Among the programs we have had this year are: a panel of adults speaking on manners; slides from the World Hi-Y conference in Paris, shown to us by Mr. Duncan; a panel of Hi-Y members speaking on teen-age problems; Reverend Jolley's interesting program on dating, including the dating questions poll; a book review by Miss Smith; and a visitation by two English girls who compared their life in England with ours in America. A social dance at the Country Club, where we had an opportunity to practice what we had learned from the panel on manners, closed activities for the year.

Our biggest service project this year has been the promotion of a religious class for juniors and seniors, to help them develop a firmer foundation for their faith. The members themselves felt a need for such a course and proposed and helped in the starting of this program. The classes were held on Mondays and Tuesdays at the church with Reverend Aldrich as instructor.

This year a very unique experiment was undertaken by the citizens of Chautauqua County. Under the sponsorship of the local American Field Service committee, AFS exchange students from the western New York area, American high school students, their advisors, parents, and other interested adults convened at the Hotel Jamestown for an international youth forum. The program consisted of speeches by leading educators and discussions between foreign and local students on common problems. A dinner and a panel discussion climaxed the day's activities.

The affair was a marked success. Credit goes to the splendid co-operation shown by everyone concerned, and especially to the inspiration and hard work of Mr. Thomas Huhn. His family has been host to Miss Perla Manapol, our foreign student from the Philippines at Chautauqua. The foreign students came from such varied places as Scandinavia, Japan, France, Switzerland, the Philippines, and Germany.

Through such endeavors our country has created firmer bonds of friendship all over the world.

BAND AND CHORUS

This year the CCS band, under the fine conducting of Mr. Keith Emanuelson, played a heavy schedule of concerts with two lawn socials. In doing this, money was raised for new uniforms, and those attending the "Music in May" concert saw the band and chorus perform on the new risers and stage extension. The purchase of these items would not have been possible except for the efforts of the very active Music Boosters Club, composed of the parents of students in the various musical organizations of the school.

At the Fredonia Music Festival on May 24, the band competed in grade five music and for the first time in four years received an "A" rating. The "Symphony in B Flat" by Fauchet, "Headlines," a modern rhapsody by Colby, and "Colonel Bogey" march by Alford, were performed with remarkable precision.

Over forty members of the band and chorus participated in the All-County Music Festival, held June 8 in the amphitheater at Chautauqua. The entire band will also play there during the program on July 4th.

The high school girls' chorus has performed beautifully this year, as usual, under the very capable direction of Miss Helen Gregg. The chorus joined with the band to make the annual Christmas and spring concerts especially enjoyable. On May 24 the chorus received an "A" rating in grade four music at Fredonia. There it drew compliments as one of the finest choruses in the state. The numbers sung were "O, Sing Your Songs" by Noble Cain, "O, Lord Most Holy" by Cesar Franck, and "Clouds" by Ernest Charles.

BASKETBALL

This year the varsity basketball squad began its second year under the fine coaching of Kyle Morse, with three lettermen returning to give their abilities in and knowledge of basketball to the team.

They were: James Kranking, a 6' 4" senior, who as the team's center contributed immensely to the fine campaign and record of the team, by proving to be one of the best foul shooters in the league and by finishing fourth highest scorer in the Southern Division. Jim was chosen as one of the five best players of the Southern Division "Dream Team."

Dennis Card, a 5' 10" junior, as this year's captain was outstanding on rebounds and foul shots. Denny, with his two years' experience on the varsity squad, will be a great help to next year's team, and a threat to any team's defense.

Leon Morey, a 5' 10" junior, handles the ball like he was born with one in his hands. With his accuracy in making shots from all angles, great dribbling ability, and stamina, Lee was a great inspiration to the team. He was chosen for honorable mention on the Southern Division "Dream Team."

The other first-string players were: John "Cork" Weary, a 5' 6" senior, who has shown that basketball is not a game for six-footers only. Cork makes up for his size by contributing greatly to the team's defense with his speed, alertness, dribbling ability, and shooting accuracy from any point on the floor. Cork was chosen for the second-string "Dream Team" in the Southern Division. With his calmness in tough situations, Cork will be greatly missed next year.

Gerald "Jerry" Hewes, a 6' 1" senior, has proven to be an exceptionally fine player, serving his first year on varsity, with his one-handed push and jump shots. Because of his very fine control and accuracy, Jerry is outstanding in foul-shooting.

The boys of the second string who were equally fine ballplayers were: Charles Hagadorn, a 5' 10" senior who with his speed and alertness has often helped the team out of tight spots.

Dene Lindquist, a 5' 8" senior, also quick and alert, has aggressiveness which often led to interceptions which made great differences in the outcome of several games. With a good eye for the basket, Dene proved to be a valuable player in pressing situations.

Harold Anderson, a 5' 11" senior, joined the team late but proved to be a fine sport and basketball player, by being calm, quick and alert at all times.

Bob Goss, a 5' 11" senior, in serving his first year at this school and in basketball, proved to be a fine player and a good sport.

Philip Hagadorn, a 5' 8" junior, being both fast and alert, has proven to be a threat to opponents and will prove very valuable to next year's team.

This year's squad has set a fine record for this school and everyone can be proud of it. Not only in their ability to play the game well but they were also outstanding in showing good sportsmanship.

This year's team finished the season by placing a close third in the Southern League Division, winning 10 games and losing four, above the record of last year's team which ended fifth with seven wins and seven losses. At one time this year, tied with Bemus Point for second place, only one game behind the Southern Division leader Sherman, our team proved to be a serious threat to them, the league championship not actually being won until the last minute. The squad continually showed fine sportsmanship in both their wins and losses. We sincerely hope that next year's teams will follow the example which was well set by this year's team in good sportsmanship, ability to play and to love the great game of basketball.
